of the court house in Barbourville, Ky, on a credit of six months, a sectain store house and lot, situated in store house and lot, situated in store house and lot, situated in line large to the west side of public Square, and bounded as follows:

Received by Mr. Perry Cole, Assistant State Mine Inspector

Mr. Perry Cole, Assistant State Mine Inspector of the lot known as the D. H. West side of the public square; theue with the bas received two complete sets of oxygen helmets and other fixtures for use by rescue parties in event of mine disasters such as gas or dust explosions, or mine fire.

We understand this to be of great benefit to the mining industry and will prove a decided improvement over the old way of rescue work.

Mr Cole informs us that with the use of the helmet aparatus it is possible for men wearing hem to enter the mines in any kind of poisonous gas and remain for two hours before it is necessary to return for a new supply of oxygen.

Often miners have been allowed to die inside the mines from suffocation, when they were in no way injured by the sole in the content of fem.

PACKING HOUSE

Would Prove Profitable In dusiry for Barbourville

Frequently we have offered suggestions for the betterment of our city, and all of them, we believe, to be practical and if put into effect would prove profitable.

Quite a few of our suggestions have been adopted and not a single one have we ever heard of that has not made a success.

The Brick Plant, the Water
Works and the Natural Gas Plant are among the industries we have urged since our connection with Barbourville began.

We have urged a canning factory, a laundry and other enterprises that as yet have not ma-terialized, but so long as our people hesitate and refuse to en-courage, just so long will we re-main in the back-ground as a city.

We now suggest that some of our thrifty business men who lave a few hundred dollars to in vest, organize themselves into a latton. Oscar and Miss Carrie Jackson lish a Packing House here. This suggestion may seem rather out-of-place to those who have not latton. of-place to those who have not given the matter any considera-tion, but it is practical and could be made profitable, besides it ceased was 55 years old, unmarried, and was the only brother and last near relative in the South of Mrs. John A. Black, of this city.

Capt. Posthethwaite was a riverstead of having to send every-tied to the capt. His Lourel's and was the only brother and last would give a home market here for all of the cattle and hogs that John A. Black, of this city.

"The next day I stumbled on my man in a restaurant and found him stoking up with his right hand.
"That's all right,' said he. 'It in't a new secomplishment. I could do it all the time. Can use one hand as well as the other, always could, but after I lost my left leg I concluded to let my right hand take a vacation. You see, I know the ways of juries. I cannot follow their reasoning, but I have studied their verdicts, and I have observed that while the right leg is considered of more value to the average man than his left leg, the left leg fetches a boom price if it belongs to a left-handed man. I can't see the connection, but juries can. You heard what that jury of mine said? Well, they always reason that way."

TRULY "DUST TO DUST."

Burisi in coffins in England was not usual until "about 1700 or even ater." Whilst the right to naked burial was not denied, it was ques-tioned whether our forefathers could insist upon the privilege of being in-closed in "a hig box, perhaps imper-sibable," and so laid in the earth. At Farnham about 1680 only four-teen out of fifty-five persons buried were buried in coffins.—Manchester Chronicle.

FEMININE NERVE.

A rare example of feminine nerve A rare example of feminine nerve comes from England. Anxious fo obtain unique photographs for sale in connection with a church, Miss Lydia Akiens, nineteen, climbed a steeplejack's ladder to the top of the spire of St. Mark's church, Leicester, which is more than 200 feet high. Having reached the top, Miss Akiens, camera in hand, coolly walked around the narrow, unpro-tected staging and snapshotted some fine views of the town. So awe-in-spiring was the sight that many of the views of the town. So awe-inspiring was the sight that many of the crowd below walked away, declaring they could watch her no longer. Finally the intrepl snapshotter caused tremendous excitement among the onlookers when she climbed another ladder and reached the weather vane, on which she rested for some minutes. Miss Akiens claims the championship as woman steeplejack of the world.

It is well to remember that many plants which once were used as veg-tables have been allowed to drop out of our bills of fare. Our forefathers, for instance, sometimes dined off of our bills of fare. Our forefathers, for instance, sometimes dined of elder top and burdock root, and the early shoots of the hop were considered a great delicacy and were cooked and eaten as asparagus.

Walter Jerrold, in his "Highways and Byways in Kent," recalls a time when Kentish children could "tell of many pleasant hours spent among the hedges in search of the wild hop and of the wholesome suppress made upon the well earned treasure ere they learned to think their food the better for being rare and costly."—London Chronicle.
